Marion Ott, New York, Files Petition, Seeking Custody of Child

IS IN BUCKS COUNTY

Two Libels in Divorce Are Also Filed in Bucks County Courts

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—A petition for a hearing in a habeas corpus action, involving the custody of a three-year-old boy, has been filed in the court of common pleas here. Two libels in divorce have also been filed.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, following the petition of a New York City mother, has directed a writ of habeas corpus to be issued to Thomas Jones and his wife, Mildred, of Mechanicsville, and that a hearing be held next Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, here.

The petition alleges that a son, Allan Thorne, was born November 20, 1938, in St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City to Marion Ott, who is the plaintiff in the action.

The plaintiff avers that on December 16, 1938, she placed her son in the custody of Mrs. Alfred Swett, 241 West 108th street, New York City. The petition further avers that February 16, 1939, the small boy was moved to the home of the defendant at 51 West Ninth street, New York City.

According to the writ, the defendants now reside in Mechanicsville.

The child is known as Allan Thorne and also Peter Jones and the mother wished to have the custody of her own son.

Charging his wife with making his life intolerable and burdensome, William M. Horner has named Helen Horner the respondent in an action in divorce. The libellant, who lives on Juniper street, Quakertown, and the respondent, who resides at the Kemble Park Apartments, Ogontz avenue, Philadelphia, were married May 7, 1933, at Harrison, N. Y.

Attractive Wedding In St. Ann's Church

A Sunday wedding interested parishioners of St. Ann's Church when at 11 o'clock mass yesterday morning, Miss Helen L. Pavone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Generoso Pavone, 317½ Washington street, was wed to Mr. Vincent Zazzarino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Zazzarino, 224 Lafayette street. In the chancel was the Rev. Fr. Peter Pinci, with the choir accompaniment for the mass being provided by Miss Francis Tamburella.

Miss Sarah Accardi, Walnut street, was the bridesmaid for the occasion; and attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Carmella Colella, Beaver street.

Serving Mr. Zazzarino as groomsmen was Mr. Frank DeCaprio, Philadelphia.

As she approached the altar, the bride was attractively gowned in a pretty model of white satin, it having a close-fitting neckline with the decollete motif at the front having trim of a cluster of orange blossoms. The full cut bodice was shirred, the waistline was cut wide, and the gown buttoned down the back. The gown had a long train, and the long sleeves ended in points over the hands. Her tulle veil was attached to a wreath of orange blossoms; she wore white satin slippers; and carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies enhanced with a white silk cord.

Shades of duobonnet and blue formed the costumes of the attendants. The gowns were patterned alike of velvet, Miss Accardi wearing a light shade of blue; and Miss Colella selecting duobonnet. The short sleeves were puffed; necklines were in the sweetheart style with trim of ruffles, and ruffles also appeared where the skirts were attached to the long torsos. The full skirts had short trains. Both maids wore velvetten slippers of duobonnet. Miss Accardi wore a velvetten hat of blue with duobonnet plume, and Miss Colella wore a hat of duobonnet velvetten with blue plume. The arm bouquets which each carried were made up of talisman rose-buds.

Three affairs were arranged following the ceremony, a breakfast being served at the home of the Pavone family; with dinner being served at the Club Condado, Trenton, N. J., at four p. m. The evening reception was arranged in Trades Hall. Leaving for a week's honeymoon in New York City, the bride wore a dress of brown silk crepe, beige coat with wolf collar; brown felt hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses. The couple will reside with the bride's parents.

PLAN AIR RAID DRILLS FOR LANGHORNE AREA

First To Be Daylight Drill On November 30th; Details Are Announced

OTHERS TO FOLLOW

LANGHORNE, Nov. 24—A series of air raid drills are planned by the Local Defense Council, the first being scheduled for Sunday, November 30th.

It is stated that the first drill will be held in daylight to familiarize the emergency police unit with their assignments and subsequent drills will increase in proportion until the drills become general and cover the entire zone including all roads and highways passing through the four local boroughs.

The time for the first drill has been set for 12:30 p. m. and will be started by the sounding of air raid alarms by the whistles of J. E. Fricke, Hulmeville; Enterprise Wall Paper Co., South Langhorne, and the fire siren in Langhorne. A swift check-up will then be made by zone chief Joseph A. Keating and his assistants and the all clear signal will then be sounded.

Flaws and errors in the first drill will be ironed out and a second drill, possibly at night, will be held a short time later.

A further meeting to make last minute arrangements and to prepare for any changes in the present schedule for the first drill will be held Friday night.

The first drill will be participated in only by the emergency police. However, it is the council's intention to have residents aware of the work that is being started so that proper participation and co-operation can be expected in later events.

Chief Keating states that it had been brought to his attention that considerable confusion has arisen as to the Local Defense Council's authority, and he stated that the unit is warranted by law with the national organization headed by Mayor LaGuardia of New York and the State organization by the governor and the county through the Commissioners.

British Aerial Superiority Maintained

London, Nov. 24—British aerial superiority has been maintained over the Western Desert ever since the Libyan offensive began, British military authorities announced today.

They said, however, that it was extremely difficult to present a clear picture of developments and said it should be remembered the imperial troops are pitted against a "resolute enemy, well commanded, who is fighting very desperately."

The clearest angle emerging from the mechanized battle at the moment, authorities declared, is that "neither the enemy's strategic nor supply positions are very good."

Extremely hard and confused fighting was declared to be in progress, and authorities said it is "still too early to assume exactly how the present phase of the battle is going to turn out." They added:

"Progress of the battle must not be judged in alternating moods of optimism and pessimism, but as a whole." The communiqué said it was assumed the operations are "proceeding satisfactorily."

DEEP-SEA DIVER TELLS OF HIS THRILLING WORK

Max Gene Nohl Shows Pictures of Diving Before Doylestown Pupils

STUDENTS ENTHRALLED

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—The students of Doylestown high school were thrilled when Max Gene Nohl, holder of the world's record for deep sea diving, spoke to them at the end of the week.

The lecture was accompanied by pictures of deep-sea diving. Nohl, who weighs 185 pounds, and comes from Milwaukee, Wis., broke the world's record for deep sea diving when he went down 420 feet on December 1, 1937.

At this depth, the diver was under pressure of 190 pounds per square inch, supporting a total weight of over 600,000 pounds of water, more pressure than has ever been withstood by a human being. For 22 years prior to 1937 the record was not broken.

Mr. Nohl told the 500 boys and girls how he liked geography in the seventh and eighth grades, already showing signs of the adventurer.

"My first real disappointment came when one of my teachers told me that I was born several generations too late to be an explorer since the North and South poles had been explored and there were no new places left.

"The teacher told me that there was still the great world of the laboratory, including the realms of the atom, molecules and radium, to be explored and scientifically experimented with and studied."

A graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Nohl, who is now 31 years old, began deep sea diving 12 years ago.

SAYS U. S. NEED NOT FEAR SOAP SHORTAGE

Gordon Fromm, of Manhattan Soap Co., Speaks To Junior Women's Club Members

GLYCERINE PRODUCED

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—Gordon Fromm, plant superintendent of Manhattan Soap Company, in addressing members of the Warrington Junior Women's Club here on Friday evening, stated that people of the United States need have no fear of a soap shortage during the national defense program.

The meeting took place at the residence of Mrs. A. Luther Nash.

Mr. Fromm clarified this statement by stating that glycerine is a by-product of soap and that it is needed in defense work. For this reason, he said, the making of soap in order to produce glycerine will be continued.

In an interesting manner Mr. Fromm spoke of the history of soap making from the time it was made in the home until the present. In its earlier days, said Mr. Fromm, it was used as a salve and not for its cleansing qualities.

Briefly Mr. Fromm mentioned the ingredients used in the making of soap, and said that because of the scarcity of them in this country, some are imported from South America.

Between 30 and 40 persons attended the meeting, which was featured by a brief business session in charge of the president, Miss E. Jane Tufts. The club, according to the report of the treasurer, Miss Alva Miller, recently purchased a $100 Defense Bond.

Mrs. Wilbur Nash, chairman of the library committee, stated that in observance of Book Week, a number of club members had given book reviews in the schools of Warrington and vicinity.

Two new members, Mrs. William Bloom and Mrs. Earl White, were welcomed.

May Be Crucial Week In Exploratory Talks

By International News Service
Washington, Nov. 24—Responsible quarters in Washington today revealed that this week may prove the crucial one in the American-Japanese exploratory talks.

Tokyo is expected to reach a decision as to whether or not it is willing to proceed with the discussions on the basis of the principles laid down by Secretary of State Hull. One of the principles is Japan's withdrawal from the Axis alliance.

Although a wide difference of opinion still exists between the two countries on the points at issue, the conversations have not reached a complete deadlock. There are definite indications that Japan would like to get around Axis difficulties by letting the alliance become a dead letter without renouncing it outright.

PEDESTRIANS AMONG THOSE INJURED IN A SERIES OF CRASHES

Two Men Hurt While Walking Along Thoroughfares During Week-End

SEVERAL PEOPLE HURT

Cars Demolished in Some Cases; Highway Patrolmen Are Kept Busy

Highway patrolmen of South Langhorne barracks were kept busy during the week-end, investigating motor crashes, and having injured taken to hospitals, or first-aid stations.

A number of accidents were chalked up, with cars being considerably damaged in some instances.

In a head-on collision on the Lincoln Highway, South Langhorne, yesterday morning at 8:55, two persons were injured, the crash said to have been caused by a skidding car striking a second machine. A large sedan operated by Charles Arbellis, Brooklyn, N. Y., is said to have skidded on the wet pavement, striking a coach driven by Gerhart Schwarzkopf, Oakmont avenue, Philadelphia. Arbellis was arrested on a charge of assault and battery by automobile. He was released under bail, and will be given a further hearing later. The injured were: Elfriede Schwarzkopf, Philadelphia, lacerations and contusions of the forehead, bruises of the knee; Iorila Arbellis, Brooklyn, N. Y., bruised back. Both were treated at Parkland First Aid Squad headquarters.

Two accidents over the week-end involved pedestrians. In a Saturday accident, at 12:15 a. m., on Legislative Route 69001, two miles west of Bristol, Herbert Hyde, Washington avenue, Croydon, was struck by a car operated by Charles Holland, Excelsior avenue, Croydon, according to the report of the investigating officer. The injured man was taken to Harriman Hospital, by Holland, he being treated for lacerations about the right eye. No arrest was made.

SELLING HER FIRST

America perhaps has been seen by more Americans during 1941 than ever previously. Grand Canyon National Park, as an instance, had more visitors in the 1941 season than in any former year, and the new attendance record exceeds the former one, made in 1936, by nearly 10 percent.

Reasons are not hard to find for the increase in domestic travel. War's perils have closed off much of the world, of course, and at the same time have intensified patriotism within these borders. There is a psychology of appreciation in this. Then, too, money is more plentiful.

Another factor is the population movement coming in response to new job demands of the defense program. Thousands of workers have been drawn to new areas in the last year.

The temper of the time prompts people to think of physical America—the United States—along lines of resources and production. Americans think of mines, wheat and cotton fields, river torrents dammed for power, mammoth factories, railroads and highways.

But when residents of the land of the free leave their homes and familiar surroundings the diversity of America's natural glories, in landscape and climate, elicits new appreciation. Her sweetly rolling New England countryside, her imponderable Rockies, her valleys and canyons, her plains and deserts, her sun-drenched villages and throbbing cities, her tropic caresses and her ice-bearing lakes—these are America for the traveler.

Nor need anyone cross a continent to catch a share of America's beauty. It is, to some measure, in every state. These are times of production for a cause, when the crop seed must be flung wide, the ore scooped strongly from the hill and the furnace strained to pour out the white-hot fluid.

But thousands on thousands of Americans also have seen, for the first time, what scenic splendor the nation has. They have seen that she walks in beauty as well as freedom.

WHOSE RISK?

Whether to dance with soldiers is the chief problem arising out of the national defense program to plague women's colleges, according to a revelation at a conference of Eastern college women. College girls insist on "dates" with "a long-range value." Selectees are not considered good matrimonial risks.

Has the uniform lost its lure? Are selectees considered frivolous? What profits a B. A. degree if the heart is frozen? Is love to be put on an actuarial basis?

Imagine a prom to which invitations had been issued after calculations with a slight rule, at which a girl's dancing "dates" had been selected because of "long-range value?" Mr. L. R. Value might turn out to be a desirable husband at fifty, but it's a safe bet that at twenty he can't dance. Who wants to tie a bank statement to a couple of orchids, or submit an affidavit with a bottle of Chanel No. 5?

Once give a prospective suitor a hint that it's ultimate worth, not love, that puts that gleam in a girl's eye and she's learned the real meaning of defense.

Jawn Lewis may discover the capturing cut mites is easier than keeping them captive.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Doron Green

One day last week, while I was trying to make up my mind what subject I should write about for the "Echoes of the Past" column this week, there came a desire to visit one of the familiar scenes of my childhood. Accordingly I drove my car down the Mill street hill and turning to the right parked along the river. Walking along a narrow path with the weeds almost as high as my head I made my way to what the boys of my day called the "Month-of-the-Apron." It was that narrow strip of water which connected the canal basin with the Delaware River.

What changes fell upon my vision! The apron was still there uncared for and forgotten. Almost hidden by the weeds it was a place of desolation and loneliness. Near by was the remnant of a one-time busy wharf where the tow boat "Bristol" tied up over night. From the storehouse of memories there came a thought of Captain William Guy, who to me boys of that period was "Uncle Willie." He has been dead these many years. Many times we boys have watched him and his crew make up the tow preparatory to taking it to Philadelphia. He would take a tow of loaded boats down and bring the empty ones back.

Continuing my journey through the weeds I found a few pieces of the lock remaining. This was a two-boat lock and probably one of the largest between here and New Hope. I thought of the office building that stood near the lock and suddenly I found myself thinking of Mr. Edward Bruden who occupied the office as the representative of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company. He was one of Bristol's substantial citizens, and because he was kind to the boys of that period he was very popular. He was the father of Robert Bruden and Mrs. Harry Headley, both of whom are still living. As I looked over the space which was once known as the canal basin, which in my day was a bee-hive of activity and excitement, it brought sorrow to my heart. A barren waste of weeds and sand! The canal boats that lined the lower end of the basin each night, waiting for the morning tow; the fine skating which was enjoyed in the winter; as well as the swimming in the summer, are today only a memory.

Passing up the tow-path on the south side of the basin, I came to the lock at the foot of Pond street. I looked in vain for the saloon that stood near the mouth of the lock, but the lock-keeper's house is the only one still standing in that vicinity. This old saloon had quite an exciting history. A boatman was once murdered on the porch. The owner had some trouble with a drunken boatman and had put him out of the saloon. Fearing that he might return and cause trouble the owner obtained a revolver to protect himself. Shortly after a loud knock was heard and thinking it was the drunken boatman who had returned, the owner opened the door and fired. It happened to be another boatman at the door and the owner had killed the wrong man. The court trial which was held at Doylestown created unusual interest but the owner of the saloon finally escaped punishment due to a technicality.

When I was a boy the saloon was owned by Fritz Hildebrand. He was the father of three children, William, Jacob and Annie. Jake found his way to the diamond mines of South Africa, and Will became a politician of note and influence in one of the western states. Some years ago, Jake came to Bristol on a visit, and while here called to see Dr. Howard Pursell. William K.

Fine knew the boys well.

During the existence of the saloon drunken fights among the boatmen were common. Frequently a drunken man was knocked into the water but I never remember one drowning. Men who were so drunk that they could hardly stand upon their feet, when thrown into the basin would swim across the mouth of the lock and climb out on the other side.

I found the old overflow still there. The creek is the same but the fishermen and their nets have gone. The old lock-keeper, Thomas Hines, had long since passed away. The old home is the only thing that remains to keep alive those childhood memories.

This excursion into the past brought back memories that had been forgotten long ago. Strange as it may seem there came into my mind a memory of a noted character among the boatmen who was called "Long Jack." He was tall and unkempt, and not very pleasant to look upon. When drunk he was like a wild animal. One night he was killed at the Mill street crossing. Many other thoughts came into my mind but I shall keep them for some future time. It was a real pleasure to tread again the ground which I knew so well as a boy and to live over again, as it were, those happy childhood days.

ado, to Newport, R. I., off the coast of Massachusetts, and explained that he went down 110 feet in one minute and that it took him one hour to come up to the surface.

The steamer "John Dwight" sank in 1923 and when the diving trip was made to salvage the cargo of liquor it was found that because of the pressure of the water the salty brine had seeped into the bottles and ruined the whiskey.

Mr. Nohl, who was brilliantly photographed while walking about on the floor of the ocean, 110 feet down, said that the only way to tell whether a deep sea scene is real or faked is by the movement of the sea weeds and the grasses. The divers use an automatic, water-proof camera.

"If the deep sea scene is genuine and not made in a studio tank shop the sea grasses move to and fro—resembling the slow, graceful swaying of palm trees—and not in just one direction," said Mr. Nohl, who also said no Hollywood camera man has ever been able to achieve this effect which is caused by the movement of the waves.

"I felt as if I had about 75 automobiles, which is about the weight in pounds, piled on top of my shoulders and a diver must keep his hands going all the time or the fish will bite them." Mr. Nohl's second film showed the use of the 4 1/2 fish or steel submarine which he has used in Haiti where they gathered sponges. The submarine is used in detecting and locating the sponge beds and then releasing a buoy to mark the spot.

Showing pictures of the divers gathering sponges, which are in reality only the skeletons of dead animals, the boys and girls shrieked when 14-foot long sharks slithered into view toward Nohl and his friends.

Nohl, who explained he telephoned up for a gun, said it shot harpoons, or compressed air making bubbles merely to frighten the sharks rather than attempt to kill them.

Because of the lack of gravitation and since there is no body weight, the divers don't sit on anything; they just sit at this depth in the water. Their antics delighted the pupils.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Tropical magic, catchy Cuban rhythms, warm blooded sonoritas, dark eyed romances, are neatly combined in the story of the "sing-sational" musical which opens today at the Grand Theatre.

With Alice Faye, Carmen Miranda, John Payne and Cesar Romero in the starring roles, the film is set in the capital city of our Latin-American neighbor and shows Havana with all its beauty in the naturalness of Technicolor.

Alice portrays a New York salesgirl who has carefully budgeted herself for several years in order to treat herself to a Havana vacation. When her ship is caught on a reef, she refuses to sign a release to the shipping company until she has had—and enjoyed—her Havana vacation.

RITZ THEATRE

The pioneering Warner Bros. are at it again with their powerful new drama of war-time Europe. It is called "Underground" and is scheduled to open at the Ritz Theatre today.

It is the studio's feeling that the daring and highly dramatic nature of the story demanded extreme realism in casting.

BRISTOL THEATRE

That man of many screen loves, Charles Boyer, does the best bit of romancing in his enviable career in "Hold Back the Dawn" which opened last night at the Bristol Theatre. Co-stars of the dark-eyed Frenchman are Olivia de Havilland and Paulette Goddard.

"Hold Back the Dawn" brings to the screen one of the most unusual stories in many a moon. Boyer, a cynical, unscrupulous, handsome heel, is a European emigre with a talent for fleeing wealthy women.

"How?" asked his wife curiously. "To go and ask her," replied Sir John.

"But you don't suppose she'll tell you?"

"On the contrary. I think she will."

"What's she like, this Madame de Vassignac?" asked Juanita curiously.

"She's very beautiful," replied Sir John.

"Oh," said his wife rather blankly. Meredith threw back his head and laughed.

"Worried about me, darling?" he asked whimsically.

"I still find you attractive." Her voice was serious but her eyes laughing.

Sir John nodded complacently. "So you should," he said. "You're not so bad yourself, you know."

BRISTOL RAMBLERS DEFEAT POTTSTOWN

POTTSTOWN, Nov. 24—The Bristol Ramblers roller hockey club scored an unexpected victory Sunday afternoon at Pottstown when they defeated Pottstown, leader of the Penna-New Jersey Roller Hockey League, before the largest crowd of spectators that ever attended a game that the Ramblers have participated in.

In the first period, play was fast and hard played, with neither team being able to score.

The second period was a different story, as the Pottstown boys took the lead as Ray Hoff fired the puck into the nets. At this point of the game, Coach "Pop" Kergie sent his shock troops into the game, consisting of Dyer, Bell, John Ritter, Sottung and Bickert, and at this point of the game Johnny Ritter went on a scoring spree and scored three goals within three minutes on passes from Dyer and Bell, but before the period came to an end the Pottstown boys tied the score on goals by Hoff.

In the final period the Ramblers scored three goals from the stick of "Bud" Ritter on some very nice passes from his team-mates, as the Pottstown boys were only able to score two goals. Final score: Ramblers, 6; Pottstown, 5.

This was the fifth victory in six games for the Bristol boys and the first defeat in six starts this season for the Pottstown boys.

The play of Bud and John Ritter on the offense was outstanding for the Ramblers, as these two boys furnished the scoring punch for the Bristol boys. On defense, Bowers, Sottung, Reeder and Bill Ritter handles their chores well.

As goalies, Dick Johnson was outstanding as he received many cheers from the large gathering as he made many sensational saves at the nets.

Hoff and Groff were the losing club's best threats.

Tells Motorists of Gasoline Developments

With the arrival of colder weather, Sun Oil Company is making extensive use of newspaper advertising to acquaint motorists with the newest developments in Nu-Blue Sunoco and Sunoco Motor Oil.

Simultaneously, the Company is notifying its dealers of this advertising which focuses attention upon the fact that no gasoline at any price will start cold motors quicker than Nu-Blue Sunoco at regular gas price.

In addition, the Company is also pointing out that this winter's Sunoco Motor Oil has been so fortified that it is now made to make motors run better longer. This contribution to longer motor life has been made to help meet the threatened shortage of new cars due to national defense requirements forcing a fifty per cent reduction in automobile production.

Consistent, large sized newspaper advertising has been a Sun Oil Company policy for years and that, together with the reinforcement of Sunoco Motor Oil probably accounts for the fact that this year alone hundreds of thousands of motorists have changed to Sunoco Motor Oil to get long car life.

CAPRIOTTI BREAKS LOOSE FOR FOUR SCORES AS BRISTOL RUNS ROUGHSHOD OVER FOES FROM BRIDGEPORT H. S., 31-7

Brilliant Bunny Back Puts On One-Man Show In Win

MELIDIO TABS TALLY

By Jack Gill

A rampaging Bristol High School eleven snorted fire and hot lava here Saturday afternoon in annexing its sixth victory of the season over the once tough boys from Bridgeport by a 31 to 7 count. Led by the hard running of Army Capriotti, who tallied four Bristol touchdowns, the Bunnies hit a season's peak in subduing the invading force.

Capriotti, one of the local schoolboy grid stories of the year, dove off-tackle from the 1 yard line for his first touchdown, ran 35 yards around end for his second six-pointer, spun his way through the Dragons' line from the 11 yard stripe for his third score and climaxed a brilliant performance by adding one off-tackle on a 7 yard stab in the final quarter. His one extra point gave him a 25 point total for the afternoon.

The lights of Dunn Field were shining brightly one crisp October evening in Trenton when new Coach Clarence Bartholomew switched Capriotti from his end post to a backfield slot. It was a move of necessity, as big Paul Ruby wrenched his shoulder going through the Trenton Catholic line. Bristol, with three coaches at the start of the season, was playing the game with little practice and little knowledge. At the time, Bartholomew hardly knew the players by their first name.

The move shot an inspirational boy into the Bristol offense that later proved to be the making of a great season. For Armand "Army" Capriotti, district pole vault champ, capable catcher on the baseball team and a steady basketball player, personally injected a bit of dash and fight into the attack.

Capriotti, who chatters incessantly to the whole team on the defense, is a hard runner. He can not only crack a line successfully, but possesses ample speed to tear downfield once he has eluded the secondary. But Capriotti's greatest attribute is his dexterity in cutting properly on end sweeps. He seldom drifts across the field and out of bounds, but rather sifts speedily across until he finds a spot to cut his way sharply and definitely for substantial gains.

Bristol never played better ball in any single game this season than it did Saturday against the Dragons. Of course, the opposition came to town with a spotty record, but were several games sharper than they were earlier. Hermann recovered on the in the campaign when Morrisville Dragons 35.

tabbed a 25 to 6 decision over them. Although Capriotti sparked the squad on the offense, Flash Potena, Vasey and Vasegriff went "all out" on the defense. Vasey continued to show that he is in on every play by again recovering an important fumble, while Vandegriff, who succeeds in intercepting passes each time out, again stepped in to alertly set up a Cardinal and Grey tally. Bridgeport's running attack was halted before it started and only in passing did the Maroon wreck havoc. Joe Falriso kept the Bunnies on the run throughout the fray with his accurate pitches.

Bristol was raring to hitchhike down touchdown junction after a week's lay-off and scored on five plays after taking the opening kick-off. Capriotti went 10 yards on his first stab off-tackle to the Dragons' 45. Chick Di Angelo went to the 35 on a sweeping reverse and took a pass for the locals' third successive first down. Capriotti then slung an aerial to Jimmy Hopkins, who was tackled on the one yard line. Capriotti sliced his way over for a touchdown and repeated through the line for an extra point.

Joe Falriso began to uncork heaves for Bridgeport after this sudden score. After Gramese had trotted 25 yards, Falriso shot successive passes to Wagner and Shank that placed the ball on Bristol's 9 yard line. Gramese hit tackle to the 5, but here Bristol resisted the Dragons and Capriotti booted to his own 33. Falriso calmly stood back on the first play and hit Hanson with a pass that went to the 4 yard mark. Diotsalvi went over from this point and hit the line on the next play making the score read 7-7.

From then on it was all Bristol. Vasey sped through to block a punt on the Bridgeport 18 in the second quarter and Potena recovered for the winners. Galzerano broke his way through to the 6 and it took Di Angelo just one play to move it up to the 2 yard line. Nick Melidio went over on the next play.

Capriotti personally accounted for another tally in the third semester. He took the kick-off at the start of the period 25 yards to the Dragons' 59. Chick Di Angelo pitched a neat 20 yard pass to Lou Galzerano and Capriotti went 35 yards around end shooting Bristol into a 19-7 lead. His sharp cut on this run made the score possible.

Bridgeport nearly hit pay dirt again in the same third quarter. Gramese intercepted a pass and ran it back 60 yards to the Bristol 10. But a moment later Galzerano pulled the homesters out of a hole by intercepting one of Falriso's heaves and running it to the 35 yard line. Melidio immediately punted and Art Massi hit Gramese who gamboled. Hermann recovered on the in the campaign when Morrisville Dragons 35.

Here's more detail on the operations of Capriotti. He never eased up Saturday. Late in the third quarter Scancelli intercepted a pass on the visitors' 39 yard line. After a reverse had lost ten yards, Capriotti sped around end for a twenty yard gain to the 29. In two more plays he covered 12 yards to the 17. Galzerano went around end at the start of the fourth canto to the 11 and Capriotti went the remaining distance for another score making it 25-7.

Late in the game, Vasey hopped on Falriso's fumble on the 18 yard line. Capriotti went to the 12 on the first play and Galzerano advanced it to the 7 on the next thrust. That was close enough for "Cap" as he went over for his final touchdown.
